Tracie Wolf is passionate about ASD and strives to share this passion and her considerable knowledge with everyone. She lives with her husband of more than 30 years and their autistic adult son. Recently self-publishing her first book, Moving Beyond Survival - The Early Years, she shares her life experiences about raising a child with Autism Spectrum Disorder and ADD. This book is the first in a three-part series that she plans to publish, which follows her son through his public school years and into adulthood.
