📖 Where To Find Your Science Work:

Sooo... Looks like we have another cloudy day. What a bummer!

Here's a PBS presentation on the apparent motion of the sun across the sky. This link is also in Class Notebook.

Observe how the Sun appears to rise in one side of the sky and set in the opposite side in this media gallery from WGBH. Use the time-lapse videos in this media gallery to observe the apparent motion of the Sun over a day and the images in the gallery to compare changes in the apparent motion of the Sun across the sky throughout the day.

I will update this in NearPod. 😊 You can use the video instead of the actual sun to draw and explain it to me in the FlipGrid.
