7TH AND 8TH GRADE PAWTY

JESSICA WEI

Bunker Hill hosted a 7th and 8th grade PAWty on September 27th, filled with memorable activities. Such as, competitive games of dodgeball run by Mr. Guerrieri and many exciting games of knockout. Not only were there fun sports to participate in but, lively music playing in the cafeteria. Kids all over were jumping and dancing to the beat of the music. There was an ample amount of food provided like pretzels and a large variety of candy. To top off the event there was a photobooth! The photobooth provided hilarious props such as, ginormous sunglasses, large hats, and masks that covered your entire face!

Fall

Fall is the time of year,
When bright colors begin to appear,
On all the branches of trees,
Red, yellow, brown, and green,
It's a joyous time to jump into leaves,
And to make a big mess for everyone to see.

Halloween

When the witches go flying,
And the moon is shining,
Leaves are falling from the trees,
Halloween is on its way,
Let's all yell yay!

HURRICANE FLORENCE

RILEY SOZIO

Imagine getting a warning on your phone for flash floods. That's fine. I'm not close to any body of water that could flood, you think. However, people in North Carolina, Alabama, Tennessee, Kentucky, and West Virginia had to take this seriously and evacuate. This hap-

Imagine how traumatizing it must be when you must evacuate your state and when you come back, your house might not be there anymore. I personally would be scared and dis-

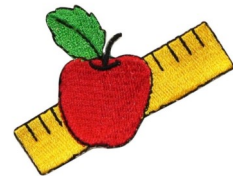

August 31- September 19. That's how long it took for Hurricane Florence to pass over. Twenty days of humongous rain drops pelting down on your house. At the end of those 20 days people knew that this was going take a while to get back to normal.

Forecasters thought that Florence would be a category 4 hurricane, but when it hit land, it turned into a category 1. You might think that this isn't much but, it stayed in one place for a long time. The winds reached about 80 miles per hour. In the center of the storm it reached about 195 miles per hour.

Hurricane Florence killed 17 people and it could have been much worse. Everyone is glad that Florence went down to a category 1. On the news, when they thought it was going to be a stronger storm, they used horrifying imagery about how high the waters would be. Gladly that imagery did not come true. Hopefully the United States will bounce back soon from Hurricane Florence.

BACK TO SCHOOL NIGHT STRUGGLES

BROOKE CAVANAUGH

I recently interviewed several parents a question that was wondered by everyone, "What were some struggles you experienced on back to school night?"

Parent 1:

"I didn't know where to go for my child's arts. Should I have gone to orchestra or art?"

Parent 2:

"I couldn't find the classroom; there should be bigger signs on the door that says the teacher's name and classroom number."

Parent 3:

"There needs to be more time. There were only 5 minutes and it made the teachers rush."
