Schoolhouse Rocks

Staff ready to bring down the CBAC

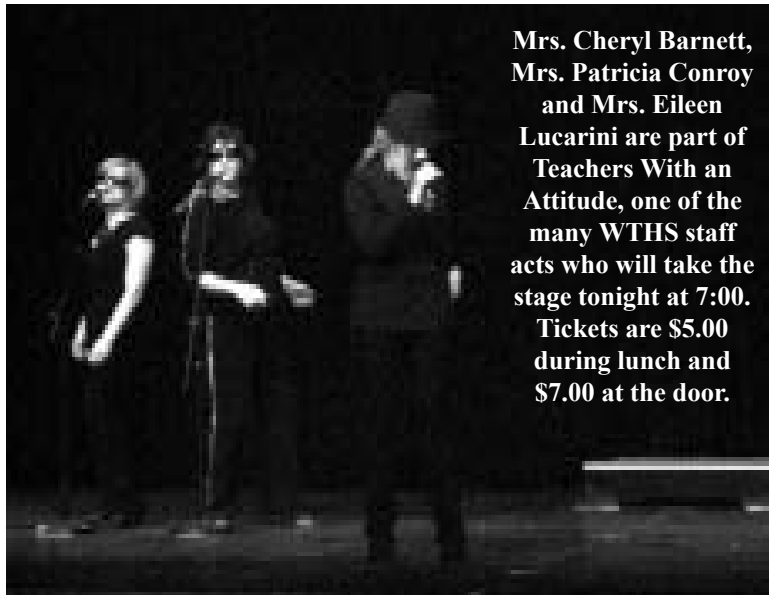

Maggie Bonanni '09

The faculty of Washington Township High School has no lack of talent. On Feb. 12, under the direction of Mrs. Patricia Tsoukalis, 13 faculty acts will execute their best moves and grace the Center for the Performing Arts stage.

As producer, Tsoukalis had to meet very stringent conditions in order to produce a stand out show. This involved many tasks, such as recruiting entertainment, auditioning and picking the final acts, overseeing rehearsals, and motivating the teachers to perform.

"I am a perfectionist, so I am expecting perfection from every group. We had a tough audition process and I had to bring in Simon Cowell to help me select the final 13 acts that are going to perform for you. We had over 100 acts show up at the high school over the holiday break. Auditions were long and tough, but Simon and I believe that you are seeing the best 13 acts in the high school," stated Tsoukalis.

Tsoukalis recruited a variety of entertainment for this year's show, which range from returning veterans teachers like Mr. Rich Valerio and Mrs. Kathy Sandusky, to new teachers who are excited to join the tradition. One stand out act that will take the stage is a special performance from teachers who graduated in the class of 1984. Another act consists of anonymous teachers, who plan on surprising faculty and students alike with a dance routine. In order to preserve their identities, they will use celebrity aliases in the program and are performing their act in full make-up and costumes.

Mrs. Cheryl Barnett, Mrs. Patricia Conroy and Mrs. Eileen Lucarini are part of Teachers With an Attitude, one of the many WTHS staff acts who will take the stage tonight at 7:00. Tickets are $5.00 during lunch and $7.00 at the door.

"I was blind-folded before I was allowed to see their act perform. The problem is that their talent is dancing to a song, so I still have no idea what they are doing!" said Tsoukalis.

Spectators who come to see this year's Talent Show can expect to see an astonishing show. Each year teachers try to top their last act, according to Tsoukalis, and are competitive to prove who has the most talent. Through strenuous practices and dedication, the faculty has worked their hardest to guarantee that this year's show will not only be an amazing spectacle to see, but one that will shock students.

"The students may be surprised to see who really has a lot of talent. It's always the quiet teachers you have to look out for," said Tsoukalis.
