	Full Year:	X	Semester:		Marking Period:
	The Units of Study curriculum is a writing workshop based curriculum designed according to research based principles utilizing the gradual release of the responsibility model of teaching. Lessons follow similar progressions of explicit instruction, demonstration, guided practice with scaffolding, to independent work with feedback provided through mini-lessons, conferences, small group sessions and class shares. There are four Units of Study corresponding to the four marking periods: Narrative – Small Moments; Opinion – Writing Reviews; Information – Non-fiction Chapter Books; and Narrative – Writing Fiction from Scenes to Series.

Unit Title: Small Moments- Writing with Focus, Detail and Dialogue (Narrative) – Unit 1

Unit Description: Students will be writing narrative, small moments stories with details, including showing action, dialogue and internal thinking. Students will be encouraged to build stamina through writing booklets of three to five pages and build rigor by completing up to four booklets per week. Students will learn to be brave and resourceful word solvers and learn to stretch out and elaborate their written texts. Students will work toward meeting CCSS W.NW.1.3, writing narratives in which they recount two or more sequenced events, use temporal words to signal event order, and provide some sense of closure. They will study and emulate mentor authors and texts to write with greater volume and detail. They will use checklists to revise and edit their work to prepare for publication celebrations.

Unit Duration: 1st Marking Period (approximately 45 days)- 21 sessions. Time is allotted to take more than one day per session, as needed. See also, Part One of the “If...then.. curriculum” manual for additional units of study, as time allows.

All sessions follow the following format:

Mini-lesson: Approximately 10 minutes

Student independent writing time with teacher conferences and small group strategy work:

25-30 minutes Share: Approximately 5-10 minutes

Learning Activities: Throughout the unit writers will...

Plan for writing:

- Touch and tell stories across pages of writing booklets.
- Turn and talk to a partner

Draft their writing:

- Sketch pictures across pages to add details to stories
- Use a partner as needed to add more.

Revise their writing:

- Revise and add more by asking Who? Where? When? What? How?.
- Use spelling strategies; slide through, snap words, word wall and use little words to be brave and spell words independently.
- Use mentor texts and author's craft moves; unfreeze characters, telling bit by bit, using dialogue and exact words to make writing better.
- Read aloud their writing to a partner and use a checklist to revise

Edit their writing:

- Read aloud their writing with partner and use checklist to edit for capitals, punctuation

and spelling Publish their writing:

- Add cover page and ending page to "fix up" for publication and celebration.

Unit Modifications for Special Population Students

Advanced Learners

- Modify instruction (based on scored pieces) by using a second grade checklist.
- Gather students in strategy groups using next level checklist and post it notes as reminders of small group extension.
- Conduct individual conferences to set goals for writers that are reflective of more challenging tasks. For example: Encourage students to choose an action, talk or feeling to make a better ending.
*See Learning Progressions in Writing Pathways- pp178-182
- Use advanced learners as class mentor/teacher for that particular skill.
- Give strategic mini lessons using mentor texts at a higher level.
- Use appropriate paper choices(add more lines, smaller picture space,etc.).

Struggling Learners	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Designate partnerships strategically identifying partner 1 and partner 2. Then allow struggling learners to share second, letting the “stronger” partner offer input first. • Conduct extra individual conferences to scaffold support. • Allow students extra time to sketch, then add details to the story. • Modify instruction (based on scored pieces) by using kindergarten checklists. (Possibly white out grade level so the student is not aware of the difference.) • Use extra adult, if available, to support as needed. • Allow a partner or peer to collaborate on confusing parts of stories. • Use iPad to orally record story. • Make sure students are able to publish and celebrate writing, to make experience enjoyable and with purpose. • Enlist parent support to discover topics of interest or expertise. (Parent letters from Writing Binder will help.) • Use mentor text from kindergarten level. • Use appropriate paper choices, and can be modified as needed. • Check “ If..then..curriculum “ manual pp. 68-77 for specific skills. • Consider using more shared writing experiences with student orally telling and teacher scripting • Use interactive writing in small groups • Support topic choice through use of photographs
English Language Learners	See suggestions from above. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Use word webs to develop language and vocabulary. • Have mentor text handy to refer to as needed. • Ensure the classroom is print rich and labeled. • Use photographs to develop story and language. • Dramatize the story then write.
Special Needs Learners	See suggestions above. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Cut student checklists to focus on fewer tasks. • Have students use visual displays when frustrated or “help” is needed. • Have students establish goals for sense of ownership. • Keep a writing notebook to jot down ideas. • Have ICR teachers offer priority seating/space as needed. • Integrate writing into other subject areas of higher interest or expertise. • Accept students work at their level and move them along the learning progressions as fast as they are able, using scaffolded supports as needed.
Learners with a 504	Refer to page four in the Parent and Educator Resource Guide to Section 504 to assist in the development of appropriate plans.

Interdisciplinary Connections

Indicators:

RFS.1.2-demonstrate understanding of spoken words, syllables and sounds

RFS.1.2c-isolate and pronounce initial, medial vowel and final sounds in spoken single syllable words RFS.1.3-know and apply grade level phonics

SL.1.1-participate in collaborative conversations with diverse partners about grade 1 topics and texts

SL.1.2-ask and answer questions about key details in a text read aloud or information presented orally or through other media

SL.1.3- ask and answer questions about what a speaker says in order to gather additional information SL.1.4-describe people, places, things and events with relevant details, expressing ideas and feelings clearly L.1.2b-use end punctuation for sentences

L.1.2d-use conventional spelling for words with common spelling patterns and for frequently occurring irregular words L.1.5-with guidance and support from adults, demonstrate understanding of word relationships and nuances in word meaning

Integration of 21 Century SkillsIndicators:

9.2.4.A.2:Identify various life roles and civic and work related activities in the home, school and community. • By using partnerships throughout the unit, students will learn and share different roles within the classroom and partnership.

9.2.4.A.4:Explain why knowledge and skills acquired in the elementary grades lay the foundation for future academic success.

- As students develop narrative writing skills, it will enable them to produce writing as communication for future needs.

9.3.12.AC-DES.2: Use effective communication skills and strategies to work with clients and colleagues.

• In partner talk, small groups and one to one conferring, students will develop necessary skills to communicate. 9.3.12.ED.1:Apply communication skills with students, parents and other groups to enhance learning. • In the development of narrative writing, students will write for an intended audience.

9.3.12.ED-ADM.1:Use research based practices to develop, communicate and enlist support for a vision of success for all learners.

• Writing workshop is a research based practice to support the learning of writing to a variety of students. 9.3.12.ED-ADM.2:Identify behaviors necessary for developing and sustaining a positive learning culture. • Students will work in partnerships within the classroom and in small groups as well as within whole group conversations that support a positive learning environment.

9.3.12.ED-PS.2:Implement methods to enhance learner success.

- Teaching students where they are according to the learning progression will enable success in all learners and at various levels.

Unit Title: Opinion – Writing Reviews Unit 2 (WT pacing)

Unit Description:

In this unit, students will be learning to name a topic, state an opinion, supply a reason/s and provide some sense of closure. In the first bend, students will be bringing in a collection of items, judging them and then providing reasons for those judgements. In bend two the students begin to write review after review, about anything: toys, restaurants, video games, etc. while supporting their claims with reasons and explanations. In this bend, students are expected to build more stamina to write up to six lengthy reviews (or more), while using all they know to revise and “fix up”. In bend three, students will learn to write book reviews, using all their knowledge from the previous sessions. The unit ends with a celebration teaching children to speak to and persuade others to read their books.

Unit Duration: 2nd Marking period (approximately 45 days) 18 sessions. Time is allotted to take more than one day/session as needed. *Note that it was decided to switch Opinion to the 2nd marking period and Nonfiction to the 3rd marking period. See also, Part One in the “If..then..Curriculum” manual for additional units of study if time allows.

Unit Title: From Scenes to Series Writing Realistic Fiction (narrative- Unit 4)

Unit Description: In this Unit students will invent characters to have small moments adventures and will learn to get their characters out of trouble by inventing satisfying endings for the reader. Then students will learn to write more than one story (a series) for a favorite character. Students will use all they know to; write with a beginning, middle and end, add tiny realistic details, “show” not tell, use dialogue, add fabulous punctuation, use illustrations and add a “meet the author” page. Students will also work to publish a second series. Students will revise, edit and fancy up their work for a publishing celebration.

Unit Duration: 4th Marking Period (approximately 45 days)- 20 sessions. Time is allotted to take more than one day per session, as needed. See also, Part one of the “If...then...curriculum” manual which gives additional/alternate units of study to be used as time allows.

Language- L.1.5;L.1.6;L.1.1.j,g;L.1.2.a

Indicators:

- Students will write realistic fiction stories with pretend characters and small moments adventures.
- Students will get their characters out of trouble through action, dialogue and adding feelings.
- Students will use one character to create a series of adventures using all they know about small moments, spelling, punctuation, editing and revising to make a better story.

Understandings:

Students will understand that... • Writers use their pretending skills to invent characters, who have small moment adventures and get into and then out of trouble in satisfying ways to the reader.

- Writers use all they know to write, revise, edit and set goals.
- Writers choose favorite characters to write more than one adventure involving this character.
- Writers elaborate about their character in book One of their series by giving lots of details about the main character.
- Writers become more powerful by: writing tiny, authentic details, “showing” not telling, stretching out chapters to have beginnings, middle and endings.

Essential Questions:

- How can I write realistic fiction with independence?
- How can I write a series of stories for a favorite character?
- How can I study the genre to become better at writing realistic fiction with greater independence?
- How can I add to and revise my work to publish my second series of realistic fiction?

<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Writers revise and edit their stories by using fabulous punctuation, adding illustrations for more details and a “meet the author” page to prepare for publication celebrations.

All sessions follow the following format:

Mini-lesson: Approximately 10 minutes

Student independent writing time with teacher conferences and small group strategy work:

25-30 minutes Share: Approximately 5-10 minutes

Learning Activities: Throughout this unit, writers will...

Plan their writing:

- Do some serious pretending to invent characters to have small moments adventures in which they get into and then out of trouble

Draft their writing:

- Choose favorite character to have a series of adventures using dialogue, mentor texts and details to stretch their work
- Elaborate to write more by: “showing” not telling, showing feelings, making realistic settings with tiny details, and writing with beginning, middle and endings
- Write and publish another series of books

Revise their writing:

- Use all they know to make writing stronger: punctuation, ellipse, illustrations to show characters thinkings and feelings, adding a “meet the author” page and adding titles

Edit their writing:

- Self assess and set stronger goals
- Use checklists and all they know about spelling and editing to reread and revise work with a partner Publish their writing:

- Celebrate publication of first series
- Finish the unit with a Grand Finale celebration of published series books

Unit Modifications for Special Population Students

Advanced Learners

- Modify instruction (based on scored pieces) by using second grade- or above, checklist.
- Gather students in strategy groups using next level checklists and post it notes as reminders of small group extensions.
- Conduct individual conferences to set goals for writers that are reflective of more challenging tasks. For example: Encourage the student to bring her character to life with details, talk and actions.
*See learning progressions from Writing Pathways-pp178-182
- Use advanced learners as class mentor/teacher for that particular skill.
- Give strategic mini lessons using mentor texts at a higher level.
- Use appropriate paper choices.(more lines, smaller picture space, etc)

Struggling Learners	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Designate partnerships strategically identifying partner 1 and partner 2. Then allow struggling learners to share second, letting the stronger partner offer input first. • Conduct extra individual/small group conferences to scaffold support. Use post notes as reminders. • Allow students extra time to sketch , to then add more to the story. • Modify instruction (based on scored pieces) by using kindergarten checklists. (Possibly white out the grade level so the student is not aware of the difference.) • Use extra adult, if available, to support as needed. • Allow a partner or peer to collaborate on confusing parts of the story. • Use iPad to orally record story, then write. • Make sure students are able to publish and celebrate writing, to make experience enjoyable, self-fulfilling and with purpose. • Enlist parent support to discover topics of interest or expertise. (Parent letters from Writing binder will help.) • Use mentor text from kindergarten level. • Use appropriate paper choices, modifying as needed. • Consider more shared writing activities with student orally retelling then have teacher scripting.
English Language Learners	See suggestions above. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Use word webs to develop language and vocabulary. • Have mentor text handy to refer back to as needed. • Ensure the classroom is print rich and labeled. • Use photographs to develop story and language. • Dramatize then add words.
Special Needs Learners	See suggestions above. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Cut or highlight student checklists to focus on fewer tasks. • Have students use visual display/signal if frustrated and help is needed. • Assign capable student mentors to check in with students. • Have students establish goals for a sense of ownership. • Keep a writing notebook to jot down ideas for future stories. • Have ICR teachers offer priority seating/space as needed. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Integrate writing into other subject areas of higher interest or expertise. • Accept students work at their level and move them along the learning progressions as fast as they are able, using support as needed.
